

I have listed both of my telephone numbers with the no call list for the express purpose of eliminating harrassing phone calls from my bank and credit card companies. I already receive paper mailings regarding their "promotions" and "new and improved services." If I choose to take them up on their offers, I will contact these companies, and have done so frequently in the past. I am asserting my right to keep my precious time, and money(through increased cell phone minute use) my own, and not be forced to squander it on senseless, harrassing, and overall off-putting phone calls. Thank you for your time.
